The news about NING's infrastructure change came out in early May of this year: the free version of NING will end on July 20th and network creators can choose from 3 pricing plans to continue the use of their networks. With the free version of NING ending in just a few short days, we wanted to update you on our NING network status.

PIIC plans to keep 2 of its 3 NING networks: the General NING and the Mentor NING. PIIC has applied for Pearson sponsorship (allowing educators to use NING for free) and will update our members as information becomes available.
